in your apps faster than ever before.

The screenshot shows the Xcode interface with the 'Interaction' tab selected in the 'Debug Console' and 'Log' pane. The 'Interaction' tab displays a sequence of messages related to the 'Front-most view controller' and 'Action message perform'. The 'Log' pane shows the system log with messages from the 'Front-most view controller' and 'Action message perform'. The 'Log' pane also displays the 'Device data' section, including the email address 'email@onahard@hotmail.com'.

Save time & money fixing bugs

The developers will be able to fix bugs faster, because they will have all the information about what the user has done in the app

Get better App Store ratings

You will be able to detect bugs before users complain, so less bugs means better ratings in the app store

Provide better customer support

Whenever a user complains, you will be able to check what he is doing, so you can give them a better customer support
